

UCLA Schedule of Classes Summer Sessions

Given the number of courses offered in various lengths, the UCLA Schedule of Classes is the best way to get up-to-date course information. We have put together these step-by-step instructions to help you and your students find the right courses.

When you are ready, go to <https://sa.ucla.edu/ro/public/soc>

EXAMPLE 1 Economics 2

Using the course Economics 2: Principles of Economics as an example, we will show you how to look for the schedule and other important course information.

The screenshot shows the UCLA Registrar's Office website. The page title is "SCHEDULE OF CLASSES". Below the title, there is a search bar and a dropdown menu for "Term: Summer Sessions 2020". The search criteria are set to "Subject Area". The search input field contains "Economics". The page is annotated with orange circles and lines, and numbered instructions:

1. Select "Summer Sessi" under Term: Summer Sessions 2020.
2. Select a Session. The options are "All Sessions", "Session A", and "Session C".
3. The search criteria option is set as "Subject Area" by default. Do not change.
4. Type in one of the UCLA subject areas that you are interested in, e.g., Economics.

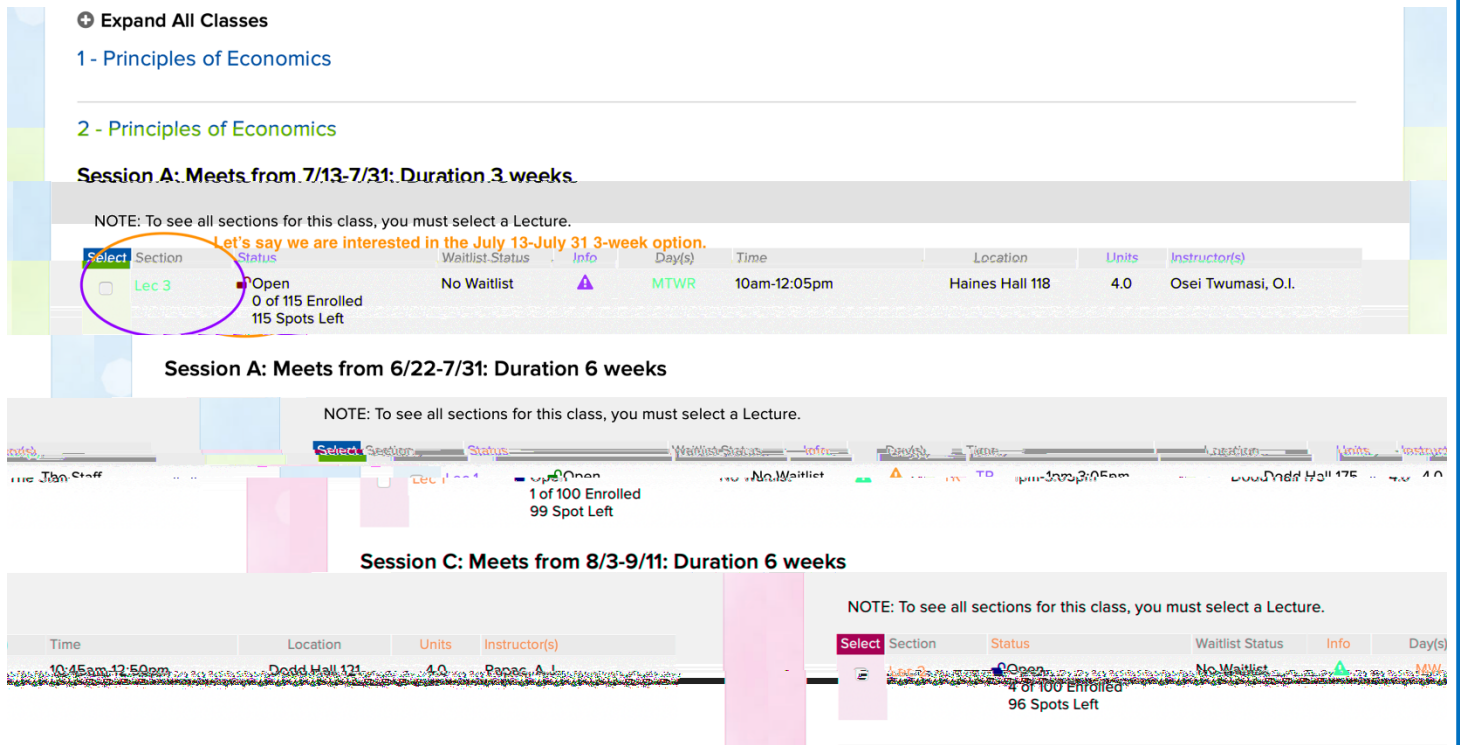

1. Select Summer Sessions 2020 under Term
2. Select a Session. The options are All Sessions, Session A, and Session C.
Select All Sessions if you are flexible and can take any course regardless of when it is offered in the summer. The entire summer term is from June 22 to September 11.
Session A includes 6-10 week courses that start on June 22, as well as 1-week courses offered in June 22-July 10 or July 10-July 31.
Session C includes 1-week courses that are offered August 3-September 11 and 2-week courses that are offered August 3-August 21.
3. The search criteria option is set as Subject Area by default. Do not change.
4. Start typing in the UCLA subject area you are interested in. We are using Economics as an example.

5. As you type suggested subject areas will be populated. Choose the one you want by clicking.

6. The Go option will now appear. You have to click on Go as an added step. Nothing will happen until you click on Go.

7. You will see all Econ 2 options that are available during the entire summer as we selected All Sessions starting the search. Each row shows how many spots have been taken, when and where the course meets and who the instructor is. If the instructor has not been assigned, it will say The Staff.

Since one course can be offered multiple times during the summer, each course is identified as a specific section. Let's say we are interested in the July 13-July 31 3-week option. The section is Lec 3 as opposed to Lec 1 and Lec 2 which are the other two options. Lec 3 and detailed class information will appear.

CLASS DETAIL

8. The Class ID number is what is required when submitting the initial enrollment request.

Course status shows the number of spots left. Waitlists may be created if the course becomes full.

When a waitlist is available, the waitlist status will show the number of waitlist spots.

Days, Time, and Location indicate the course meeting days, times, and the building name and room where class meets.

Units is where you can find the number of UC Credit units the course offers. In case of Econ 2, it is 4 units. With this unit information, you can estimate the unit fees for the course ($$360 \times 4 = \1440).

Grade Type shows the grading basis of the course.

Restrictions show whether the course is open to everyone or limited to UCLA students or particular majors only. Most of the courses will say Class: None, meaning students can enroll without restrictions.

If Impacted says yes, you need to pay attention to the drop and refund deadlines, which in most cases are earlier than non-impacted courses.

EXAMPLE 2 Chemistry 14B

Now let's do another search. This time, we are looking for Chem 14B. This example will have an important note that you need to be aware of, so please be sure to review it.

There is a little triangle next to the check box. Click on it.

4. You will see a little triangle in purple next to the check box in the select column, different from the example. This little triangle in purple indicates that the course has discussion sections.

Some UCLA undergraduate courses have classes for lecture only, while some courses have meetings to discuss and learn more about lecture in small groups in addition to the class meetings for lecture. The groups for these additional class meetings are called discussion sections.

For courses with discussion sections, students are required to attend both lecture meetings and discussion section meetings. Since lecture times are the same for all discussion sections, the UCLA enrollment is set up so that students select a discussion that works for their schedule. If enrolled in a discussion section, students are automatically enrolled in the lecture portion of the course, as opposed to enrolling in lecture and a discussion section separately.

Click on the purple triangle to see all discussion section options.

NOTE: To see all sections for this class, you must select: (1) a Lecture; (2) a Discussion.

6. Please note that the details you see are only for Section 1A.

The status and waitlist status are for the discussion section, and are different from the total course enrollment.

The meeting times listed are only for the discussion section meetings, and students must attend class as well, which will be in addition to the discussion section meetings.

The unit information says 0 because students do not earn additional unit credit by attending discussion sections.

Grade type says Passed because students earn grade from the entire class.

Therefore, there are only two pieces of information you should take from the discussion section details.

The first one is the Class ID number since enrollment in the course is done through the discussion section and your students need to provide the Class ID number for the discussion section, if applicable, when submitting the enrollment request.

The other is the discussion section meeting information. For all other course details, students need to click on the lecture portion of the class, in this case, Lec 1.

7. As you can see, Lec 1 has its own class ID number.

Again, please note that this is not the class ID number that you will use for the registration form for discussion sections. If there is any discussion section available, you must provide the class ID of the section you'd like. You use the class ID number of the lecture of your choice is only if the class has no discussion sections.

The lecture meeting times, which are different from the discussion sections, are displayed as part of the class details. The course unit information says 4 and the grade type is displayed.

CLASS WEBSITE AND SYLLABUS

Class websites may become available as early as February. However, many courses will have the class web closer to the instruction start date.

Courses with available websites will have a link displayed on the class details page.

Some courses may have a syllabus posted on the class website publicly, and some courses may have it available to enrolled students only.

In case class websites are not available or syllabi are not accessible to the general public:

UCLA course descriptions provide you with a general understanding of the content that will be covered in each course.

Some departments have sample syllabi posted online, and they are available at <https://www.summer.ucla.edu/academiccourses/samplesyllabi>

If you have questions about the course syllabi, you may contact the course instructor.

The screenshot shows the UCLA Campus Directory search interface. At the top, there is a search bar with the text "osei, twumasi" and a "Search" button. Below the search bar, the results show "People Search: found 1 record". The record details for Olivia Osei Twumasi are displayed in a white box with a blue border. The details include:

- Name: Osei Twumasi, Olivia
- Title: Assistant Adjunct Professor
- Email: o.oseit@ucla.edu
- Department: Economics
- Address: Bunche 8244
- Mail Code: 147703
- Admin Code: 110000
